LEADS DEFINITIONS

1. "THE SLAM DUNK"---This is the lead where a business transaction is actually facilitated by a Premier member with "hands-on" assistance. For example, you have a client that needs services and the client places an order or retains a member on your direction. You set the transaction in motion and facilitate its finalization.
2. "THE GENERAL"---This is the lead that opens up a general opportunity for a Premier member. For example, you know someone that can produce leads for a member or members such as the chairperson of a large organization. You give the person cards of members, invite the person to a breakfast, or give him or her promotional material.
3. "THE SHANGHAI"---This is the lead where you are in the presence of a client or customer that needs goods or services provided by another member. For example, a prospect is sitting in your office and announces that he or she needs the service of another member. You pick up the telephone and make a direct introduction.
4. "THE PREMIER"---This is the lead classification that covers services that you or your company need. For example, you need printing services for your business. You place an order directly with another member.
5. "THE PROMOTIONAL"---This is the lead classification where you do some public relations for individual members or for the Premier organization. You suggest that when and if the prospect needs the service of a particular Premier member, that he or she call the member. For example, a friend of yours says that they will be planning a vacation this year. You suggest that the Premier Travel Agent is the best in the business and give the client the member's card, or name and telephone number. You have planted the seed that may grow into a business relationship. Or, you give a prospect a promotional flier listing Premier members and ask them to use the services of members when necessary.
6. "THE RICOCHET"---This is a lead that is an "out-growth of a lead to you or another Money Leads member. For example, you refer a personal injury case to Franklin and he then refers the client to Rollie, Martha, and or Joe.
7. "THE OUTSIDER"---This is a lead that brings "new business" to Money Leads members consisting of new clients and business that is not between members.
8. "THE GRAND SLAMMER"---This is the truly great lead of leads, one that may provide great opportunity and fortune to a member. A printing lead to Lee for a large organization or a water services lead to Vance for a large consumer are good examples. Or perhaps a real estate developer who needs many large loans for Peaches & Tom and the services of Steve, Tom, Jim and/or Dave.
